First Meeting with the members of the Scientific Board

It is with great pleasure that we announce that the EMBRACIN team is growing!!

During the online weekly meeting on May 25, 2021, the partners and members of the Steering Committee welcomed the members of our Scientific Board. Salvatore Petronella, Edileny Tome da Mata, and Verena Schmid had the opportunity to introduce themselves and their experience on migration and integration, express their interest in the project and discuss with partners how they can support the implementation and assessment of the project. We are glad to learn from these qualified members and have the opportunity to work with them.

Online Transnational Meeting organised by Sala Municipality

The first EMBRACIN Transnational meeting was successfully carried out in Sala, Sweden. Due to the COVID-19 restrictions across Europe the meeting was carried online. This was a great opportunity for partners to learn about each others' actions and plans towards helping migrants in their countries become a part of the community. The partners involved in the pilot experimentation held a presentation in regards to their practical implementation with the participants in the project. Many important and notable points were raised and discussed. The members of the EMBRACIN Scientific Board were present and gave their feedback on the transferability plans as well as the activities with beneficiaries. This led to important discussions and things to keep in mind when moving forward with the project.

Pilot sessions

Sala Municipality: The activities with beneficiaries have already started and one of the main goals is to offer them opportunities to make their inclusion in society easier and have a better quality of life. One of the great accomplishments of one beneficiary was to learn how to ride a bike.

MDAT, (Thessaloniki, Greece) has been engaging with the beneficiaries in the EMBRACIN Pilot scheme on a daily level. The upcoming activity is participating in an open air music festival. This will help our participants gain a social, cultural experience, feel part of a community and also entertain them.
